

CHAPTER 01

Assessing Self

In a task as mundane as grocery shopping, the shopper takes a mental inventory of what he or she has at home and thinks about what is needed for the upcoming week. Why, then, when making career choices, wouldn't a job seeker take "inventory" of skills, interests, strengths, personality, values, and ambitions?

Gathering information for this inventory can look different but the goal is the same - to assess oneself before beginning the job seeking process. The following are lessons for self-assessment.

Lesson One: Self Awareness: Traitify

The purpose of this lesson is to use an online self-assessment tool (Traitify) to analyze a job seekers' preferences. The seeker will respond "me" or "not me" to a series of pictures designed to elicit his/her interests. These interests are grouped into seven personality types. The results can form the basis of further discussion and research into possible career interests.
